What is a typical class at Cape Breton Highlands Karate Club?

A typical Karate Class:

Classes are 1 hour long. A typical class involves 15 minutes of warming up the joints and muscles, 15 minutes of aerobic exercise, such as relay races, push-ups, sit-ups, jumping jacks, and 30 minutes of doing karate, involving:

- i) “kihon” = basic techniques of kicking, blocking and punching... (but only in the air, not at a person);
- ii) “kata” = formal exercise that is a set series of blocks, punches and kicks in a dance-like routine that once again is done without a partner, and ;
- iii) “kumite” = sparring, but the sparring done in this karate style is dictated by safety and control. All techniques are “static”, non-moving techniques, in a safe and controlled environment.

Adult classes (ages typically 10 to 75) involve the same routine, but with more focus on the forms or Kihon/Kata technique.
